

QUALITY POLICY

Remote Vocational Training Scheme Ltd .... Training and Retaining for Australian Communities

The Remote Vocational Training Scheme (RVTS) enables retention of medical workforce through the education, training and support of practitioners working in Rural, Remote and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health under the guiding principles of:

- facilitation of access to education and training in circumstances where it may otherwise not be possible; and
- flexibility and innovation in meeting the training needs of diverse communities.

RVTS is committed to fostering a culture of continual improvement across the organisation to meet the needs of all stakeholders.

The ISO 9001:2015 accredited RVTS Quality Management System (QMS) provides for the systematic and continual improvement of the organisation's performance through regular review of its processes. The policy and procedure necessary to achieve required standards are described in the quality system.

RVTS management and staff are responsible for the communication, enthusiastic promotion and implementation of this Quality Policy.

---

Warning - Uncontrolled when printed! The current version of this document is kept on the RVTS file server.

Authorised by: RVTS Board – March 2018

Original Issue: January 2009 | Previous Version: September 2016 | Current Version: January 2018

Maintained by: Quality Officer | Next Scheduled Review: January 2019